Selforganization and management in development of innovation society during the transition from instable to stable development of society
Polikarpov V.S.
The Taganrog Technological Institute of Southern Federal University, Taganrog, Russia philosofi@egf.ts.ure.ru

The paper deals with the problem of interrelations selforganization and management in innovative society during the transition from instable to stable development of society.

Key Words: selforganization, management, development, innovation, society